CLERGY CORNER WITH RABBI & CANTOR

Wishing You Joy in its Season. . .

With the advent of Fall comes cooler weather, the changing of the leaves and Sukkot, the Festival of Booths. We are likely familiar with the holiday's agricultural and historic meanings -- the Ancient Israelites' celebration of the Fall harvest of grain, grapes and olives and the wanderings of our ancestors for forty years in the desert during which they dwelt in temporary huts. For those of us who construct sukkot, we have fun decorating our temporary dwellings and hosting meals for family and friends alike. Perhaps we even contemplate the meaning of this joyful holiday that follows so closely on the heels of the somber Yom Kippur -- as Jews, we are absolutely to enjoy life, but not to be seduced by excess and or false senses of security. What endures, what matters are faith, family and community -- the only things upon which we can rely when the winds of change (or storms of autumn) threaten.

We also read the scroll of Kohellet, or Ecclesiastes, on Sukkot. Why? Perhaps it's the time of year, autumn, that puts us in a reflective mood, thinking back over the year and our lives, as Kohelet's author did. This was the richest time of the year in ancient Israel; the crops were gathered and so Sukkot was a time of unrestrained rejoicing. Perhaps Kohelet, with its repeated warnings that wealth and material goods are vanities, served to temper the mood a little.

But Rabbi Annie Petit writes, "There is a deeper aspect of Kohelet, however, that fits the mood of Sukkot in quite a different way. Sukkot is a liminal holiday, balancing on the edges of seasons. We leave our solid houses for relatively frail temporary structures. At the same time, ideally, we leave behind our fixed everyday routines to try to reclaim, in some part, the exhilaration of our wilderness experience of God. We want to go outside our experiences, to encounter the unexpected, be it a sudden rain shower, some insight into the state of our lives, maybe even an experience of the Divine. Kohelet writes about the extremes of his own human experience, noting that what we think that we perceive is not necessarily the ultimate reality; he has searched high and low, been there and done that, and is now giving us the benefit of all of his hard living. He calls us to get outside ourselves, because the things we cling to often have no ultimate meaning."

We wish for you during this week-long celebration that Sukkot truly be for us a time of real rejoicing; may we be present to enjoy each moment of it -- each gathering of friends and family, each gust of fresh fall air, each sudden rain shower, each dappling of fall sunshine. So may we be renewed and rejuvenated for all the good that is yet to come.

Politics and Ohef Sholom

The Executive Committee held a retreat on Sunday, August 9. We met at Temple, and thanks to a creative set-up, 10 of us were safely spread throughout Kaufman Hall.

One of the agenda items was 'Politics and Ohef Sholom Temple.' How do we not upset congregants, but remain relevant and guide our congregation through the many issues facing today's world? How do we examine national and global events through a Jewish lens, while not causing heartburn for those who don't agree on the interpretation – or even the subject? If we don't talk, how will we find or ever establish common ground? A spirited conversation took place.

We discussed how some issues that previously wouldn't be considered 'political' now are . . . the environment, immigration, racism, and Israel, just to name a few. As far as the upcoming election, we agreed without hesitation that we would not venture into those murky waters.

In her official statement from the Supreme Court regarding the death of Justice Antonin Scalia, the late Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg began with a quote from the opera Scalia/Ginsburg:

"Toward the end of the opera Scalia/Ginsburg, tenor Scalia and soprano Ginsburg sing a duet: 'We are different, we are one,' different in our interpretation of written texts, one in our reverence for the Constitution and the institution we serve."

Justice Ginsburg continued, "From our years together at the D.C. Circuit, we were best buddies. We disagreed now and then, but when I wrote for the Court and received a Scalia dissent, the opinion ultimately released was notably better than my initial circulation."

This could be said of Ohef Sholom Temple. We may differ in our opinions, but we are one when we gather for worship, for social events, for emotional support after tragedy, and for performing acts of tikkun olam.

The Executive Committee, Rabbi Roz, and Cantor Jen understand we must all feel comfortable with all aspects of our Temple. Still, we concluded that we shouldn't shy away from difficult topics and should instead follow the example of Justices Scalia and Ginsburg and prepare ourselves to learn from each other's dissent.

On Yom Kippur, Rabbi Roz addressed this topic in her sermon in her usual intelligent, spiritual, respectful, and even practical manner. If you did not hear it, please check it out on our Facebook page or read it on our website.

Communication, the Executive Committee agreed, is the critical key to civility. And, so, when possible, please take the time to write or speak with our clergy or members of Temple leadership about issues that are important or of concern to you. Like a family sitting around the dinner table, voices might rise with opposing viewpoints, but when the discussion is over, a family is still a family. Likewise we will always be a congregation – our Ohef Sholom Temple Family.

Hopefully, we'll learn from each other.

L'shalom,

Terri Denison Budman

MAZEL TOV!

Congratulations to Reese Longwater on her upcoming Bat Mitzvah on October 24!

Reese is the daughter of Adam and Karen Longwater, sister of Madison and Caden, granddaughter of E. Jean Heidig and the late George T. Heidig (of blessed memory), and the granddaughter of Sandra T. Longwater and the late Marvin H. Longwater (of blessed memory).

Congratulations to Marisol and Jacob Chesla on their upcoming B'nai Mitzvah on October 31!

Marisol and Jacob are the children of Mark and Emily Chesla, grandchildren of Kitty Wolf and the late Rabbi Arthur Steinberg (of blessed memory).

Bring Home Some Ohef Sholom Sanctuary!

This year's High Holidays looked different for many of us -- unable to join together in the sanctuary with the glow of candlelights, the crisp air of a fresh new fall, and the warm embrace of our families and community.

As a lover of stained glass who has picked up the craft, I set about making a replica of our Temple's windows as a way to bring the sacredness of that space into a home, into a family Shabbat. In return, I'd like the piece to generate funds for those that still seek sanctuary - that still need our community and our country to share in the dignity of housing and refuge.

The pictured Ohef Sholom Stained Glass Shabbat Candle Set is available for raffle, and all proceeds will benefit the Caring Committee, which supports the newly created Love Thy Neighbor initiative as well as our Soup Kitchen and other tikkun olam (repairing the world) programs. $10 = 1 ticket!

Tickets can be purchased online at ohefsholom.org through November 20.

Thank you for your generosity. Through it, may we bring some sanctuary into a home and open sanctuary to those not currently within its warmth and safety.

With love,

Erica Fink

Purchase Raffle Tickets online at ohefsholom.org for a chance to win Erica Fink's Stained Glass Shabbat Candlesticks modeled after our sanctuary windows! Drawing to be held on November 23.

SISTERHOOD

We have officially started a New Year! Even as I sit here and write this article, I am contemplating what this unique new year will bring. What will we be able to do? What activities will we be able to participate in? When will we be together? Just like everyone else, I have lots of questions and not so many answers.

Our Sisterhood Board is meeting monthly and we are discussing how to bring us together and support each other and our Temple. Sisterhood takes pleasure in working with our Religious School and so far this year, we were able to provide snacks for the faculty as they met to plan for their virtual year. Surely, we will be there for our School in other ways, too. Currently, we are planning a Zoom craft project and a Winter Book Club. We are hoping to work with some of our other Temple committees and support projects for the community, as well.

We welcome your thoughts and ideas, so please contact me.

Yours in Sisterhood,

Gail

Our mission, as stated on the website:

"OST Sisterhood is a community of welcoming women from all walks of life who meet for spiritual, educational, and social growth through Judaism. Our diverse members are all ages and come from varying backgrounds, allowing us to join together to serve the needs of our congregation and community, while cultivating life-long friendships." ☆

MEN'S CLUB

Greetings from Quarantine Central. It's not because of any virus but it's because I'm retired. We have had two Zoom meetings with the Men's Club. Our activity level has slowed down greatly but hasn't stopped altogether. We are currently working with OSTY for a future project. I hope everyone is staying safe and secure and healthy.

There you have it, folks. Short, sweet, and to the point.

If you have any questions or comments, you can email me or call me.

ECOJUDAISM

"Out With the Old, In With the New." Repurpose What you Can.

This old saying fits this time of year in the garden. We are removing the late summer annuals, moving leaves, and planting winter bulbs and plants. It is one of the times for new beginnings for the garden.

Many gardeners use this time to enrich their soil by adding compost and other important materials and planting cover crops. Cover crops are plants, usually planted from seed, that hold the soil over the winter, retain soil nutrients, add organic matter, and help prevent soil compaction. Seeds that are often used for cover crops include winter wheat, winter rye, oats, and crimson clover.

Fall is a great time for planting. It is more comfortable working in the garden thanks to the cooler weather. Different plants can be grown as food crops and for aesthetic reasons. These plants need cooler weather to thrive and produce. There are 2 groups of plants that can be grown in cooler weather.

One group of plants can live in temperatures as low as 32 degrees and can withstand a light frost. This group includes beets, carrots, lettuces, and potatoes. The other group, which includes kale, collards, mustard, spinach, parsley, and broccoli is extremely hardy and can tolerate temperatures as low 20 degrees. Most of these crops have more flavor after a frost.

Curly Kale is one of the plants that can survive temperatures below freezing.

You still may be able to find plants at the garden centers. It is too late to start them from seed. Seed should have been started in August for fall planting.

A word about those pesky leaves that are falling and covering your yard and streets. The traditional plan was to rake them up and throw them away or worse, burn them. New research about leaves shows that keeping them in your garden is much more productive. Leaves can be mulched with a mower back into the lawn where they will break down releasing nutrients back into the soil. They can be used in a compost pile with green trimmings and grass clippings. This compost can later be added to your gardens where it will help prevent weeds, add nutrients, and help maintain moisture. Shredded or mulched leaves can be put back into your gardens as a mulch. These will help your soil stay moist and protect tender plants from the cold during the winter. "Repurpose what you can."

Leaves provide a protective layer for the soil and tender plants.

We are at the beginning of the New Year. This is a good time to reflect on what is changing in the natural world and find purpose, peace, and renewal from it. "In with the new." We plan and plant. "Out with the old." We trim, weed, harvest, and pull. Repurpose what you can. We compost, save seeds, use rain barrels, reuse, repair, and try to minimize our footprint on God's earth.

By not removing stems, branches, and leaves, spaces are provided for animals like the swallowtail chrysalis to shelter for the winter.

TREX Program Update

Despite an interruption from the COVID-19 pandemic, members of Ohef Sholom Temple have come through to successfully earn our third TREX bench. This bench will be presented to the Gosnold Apartments, a facility of Virginia Supportive Housing.

Although the Temple has been closed, Jackie Haywood and I have been collecting and weighing plastic every week when we come to work in the OST garden. Even with the temporary halt in collection for most of March, we still turned in 627 pounds of plastic, bringing our total to over 2,200 pounds since we began in February 2019. This is 2,200 pounds of single use plastic that will not end up in landfills, in the ocean, or in the stomachs of marine life.

Members and friends can bring their plastic to the Temple Monday through Friday during business hours of 9:30 am to 4:00 pm. Leave your plastic in the bins in the foyer; please do not leave it outside. If you can't bring it to the Temple, you can drop it off at any Food Lion or Harris-Teeter. If you can weigh it, send me the amount. If you can't weigh it, turn it in anyway; just don't throw it in the trash.

To review what can be recycled: TREX accepts pallet wrap and stretch film, grocery bags, bread bags, case overwrap, dry cleaning bags, newspaper sleeves, ice bags, wood pellet bags, ziplock and other recloseable food storage bags, produce bags, bubble wrap, salt bags and cereal bags. All plastic must be clean, dry and free of food residue.

Most of you have been very good at only bringing in acceptable material, but every once in a while material that cannot be accepted sneaks in. Please make sure not to include plastic bottles, plates, cutlery or clamshell packaging. We have even found rotten bananas, a can of corn and a bra. So please don't mix up your TREX and your trash, groceries or contributions to clothing drives!

As we start our fourth collection, I am looking forward to continuing to reach out to our members and the community with this program. Suggestions on where to place future benches are welcome as well as additional volunteers, who can help collect, weigh and turn in plastic. I particularly want to thank Sharon Nusbaum, Jackie Haywood, the maintenance and office staff of OST and everyone who has brought in their plastic regularly. SOUP KITCHEN

What does our Soup Kitchen look like during the Pandemic?

Staying true to our mission of serving our hungry neighbors, the Soup Kitchen moved outdoors under the Temple portico plus three tents to protect our volunteers and guests from the rain or glaring sunshine. At the first table, we offer a boxed hot meal in a to-go bag. Under the second tent, guests can select from iced gatorades and water bottles, tuna fish and cracker kits, macaroni and cheese, pasta with sauce and many more pantry staples. Under the third tent, we distribute toiletry kits, donated backpacks, clothes and shoes, Bombas socks, and individual hand sanitizers and masks, which were donated by FEMA!

My hair stylist, Joshua Lewis, has remained steadfast to his commitment to give free haircuts to all who would like one, and he sets up his station under a shady tree with lots of extension cords.

All of this only happens with the support of our devoted volunteers who follow all safety protocols while providing fellowship and much-needed food and personal items to our guests.

Start your New Year off right by giving back to our community in need. Join our Soup Kitchen team to feed our hungry Ghent neighbors the last Monday of every month, rain or shine, pandemic or good times. Contact Dorianne Villani at dvillani@cox.net to participate in this Mitzvah.

EDUCATION

RELIGIOUS SCHOOL IS UNDERWAY!

Our Religious School began the year with a welcome drive-through on September 13 where the students got to meet and greet their teachers and pick up class materials while socially distancing in their cars!

Our virtual classes will begin on Sunday, October 4 2020 with a new creative and comforting curriculum developed especially for these challenging times.

La-bri'ut: To our Health and Wellness is intended to provide our students with the tools to get through these difficult times, to recognize their inner strengths and make hard choices through a Jewish lens.

There are also special programs for our teens and preschoolers.

Does your child have special needs? In order to provide a meaningful and appropriate religious education for all Jewish children, OST has a Virginia State certified special education teacher on our staff to work with children with special needs to create an environment in which all children can learn.

LIFE & LEGACY

Campaign Update: October 2020

As we near the end of the Harold Grinspoon LIFE & LEGACY campaign, we want to again share our appreciation to those who have participated and made the choice to leave a LEGACY gift for Ohef Sholom. It has been an incredibly successful effort for Ohef Sholom and our community!

It is through this campaign that we recognize the vital necessity of our continued effort to create and foster a culture of philanthropy in our OST community. LIFE & LEGACY will officially end in December, and while we will have successfully achieved our stretch goals set when we began this initiative four years ago, we have yet to reach the larger goal we set in honor of our milestone anniversary campaign of 100 endowment gifts. Reaching this goal, and even going beyond, will help embed philanthropy as a foundational element of our culture.

Growing our endowment through bequests and other forms of legacy giving is critical to the Temple's ability to meet the challenges of a changing world and fulfill our mission. It is an ongoing effort that we need to sustain by fostering new and ongoing conversations as these conversations are not only sources of giving but are the prerequisite for getting those gifts.

A common misconception about legacy giving, and a big reason why many people shy away from conversations regarding them, is that in order to have one, you need to be of high net worth. The truth is that ANYONE can leave a legacy; size is not what is important. These conversations are really an open dialogue about values that are close to your heart. Legacy giving provides one with the opportunity to remember what it feels like to support people, not things, community not services, and to build strong ties that will support all of us and future generations. What we get from giving is priceless.

The Grinspoon initiative in combination with our 175th Anniversary Campaign tremendously helped reinvigorate this critical area of resource development that plays such an important role in normal times, but especially in transitional and challenging times like we are experiencing now.

If you are interested in learning more about making a LIFE & LEGACY gift or helping with this effort, please reach out to our LIFE & LEGACY Chair and Foundation President Matt Fine at matthewfine@cox.net or (757) 407-1368. Your commitment today will ensure our Jewish community a vibrant tomorrow.

A special thanks to those who have already formalized their LIFE & LEGACY commitments.

ALL gifts require formalization!

Kaitlyn Oelsner at the Tidewater Jewish Foundation is our LIFE & LEGACY contact person who can assist you or answer any questions.

Please feel free to reach out to her at 757-965-6103 or Koelsner@ujft.org.

Many thanks to everyone who made High Holiday calls to our congregants, who packaged the Temple gift bags, and who delivered prayer books and gifts to all of our congregants. We are so fortunate to have such a generous and thoughtful Temple Family. Many thanks to Linda Fox-Jarvis and Barbara Dudley for co-chairing this project.

THE POST BULLETIN BOARD

Tuesday, Oct. 6 at 7:00 pm
via Zoom

Join ODU Basketball Coach Jeff Jones and Filmmaker Dani Menkin to talk about Basketball, Israel, and the uplifting film highlighting the 1977 Israeli Basketball team, On the Map.

ODU Basketball
Coach Jeff Jones

Filmmaker
Dani Menkin

Watch the film anytime between now and October 6 with this link and password: <https://vimeo.com/208277408>
PW: OTM22

On The Map tells the story of the '77 team, the one that brought the first European Cup to Israel and became "The Team of the Nation."

Featuring interviews with the Jewish-American athletes who made history, On the Map combines the pulse pounding action of a high-stakes game with an incendiary political situation at the height of the Cold War to deliver a film that honors Israeli heroes, mesmerizes fans of the game, and captures the spirit of a nation triumphant and victorious against all odds.

RSVP to reservations@ohefsholom.org for the Zoom link!
