Three Months: Reflections on My Sabbatical and Homecoming January 4, 2013

I have missed you all. I have missed you terribly. I have missed hearing the goings on in your lives. I have missed our conversations, with your wonderful creative ideas, your deeply thoughtful questions, your humor and laughter and yes, I have even missed your tears. I have missed our joyful prayer and meaningful study. Most of all, I have missed being a part of this vital, caring, soulful Jewish community that has become my home and extended family.

Indeed, three months is a very long time. And there are so many things I want to say to you . . . but, first and foremost, I want to say thank you. Thank you for the precious and rare opportunity you gave me to rest -- my body, mind and spirit. Every single one of you works exceedingly hard and is deserving of time to take care of yourselves; to be meaningfully engaged with your families without the constant constraints of time; to be able to learn whatever your heart desires; and to explore and think and respond to life unencumbered. And I know that most of you don't get that opportunity and I don't take it lightly that you enabled me to do all of those things . . . all rare and precious in the crazy world in which we live.

This was my first Sabbatical in seventeen years in the rabbinate and I learned so much, got much needed rest, ate lots of chocolate and affirmed that there is no place like home, right here in Tidewater. I shared with a detailed account of my studies in my first sermon back on January 4th. For those who missed the wonderful service, the text is posted in its entirety on our Temple website, www.ohefsholom.org/worship/sermons.

I am so lucky to be a part of this amazing congregation and would be remiss if I didn't mention, at least, some of you by name without whom my time away would not have been possible. I thank all of you for your hard work, dedication and devotion to Temple and these individuals especially: the members of our Executive Committee -- Eddie Kramer, Linda Fox-Jarvis, Ted Kaufman, Lawrence Steingold, Lisa Cohen, Linda Spindel and Andy Kline; the members of our Board of Directors, Men's Club, Sisterhood and the chairs and members of every committee in this Temple from Adult Education, Worship and the Caring Committee to Budget, Dues, Fundraising and the OST Foundation. I especially want to mention OSTY, our Ohef Sholom Temple Youth Group, who hosted an extraordinarily successful Kallah for over 200 youth from our region; Nichole Kushner, Leslie Legum, Mark Hecht, Linda Fox-Jarvis and David Katz, who spearheaded our lovely and successful Directory in honor of Chuck's 30 years with us; Rabbi Connie Golden who guided our Sisterhood in its fourth amazing Shabbaton; and Dorianne Villani and all of the Soup Kitchen volunteers who have made our effort to serve the hungry among the greatest mitzvot we fulfill as a congregation.

Finally, those who bore the brunt of the burden of my absence with the greatest grace and generosity of spirit are the members of our OST Staff: Gail Bachman, Linda Peck, Sara Bachman, Kari Amuiel and Mike Phillips; the members of our Religious School Administration and Faculty led by Kitty Wolf and Debbie Haring; and our music program under the direction of our outstanding Music Director, Chuck Woodward and the spectacular Ohef Sholom Temple Choir, both professional and volunteer. Last but not least to Rabbi Steinberg, Rabbi Forman and, most of all, Cantor Wally, thank you, thank you, thank you. I know how hard you worked these past three months serving the needs of our beloved Temple and I am so blessed to team with you in the holy work we do in serving God and Jewish people.

I was able to leave for three months because I know that each member of Ohef Sholom cares enough about each other and this sacred community to ensure that acts of goodness abound and that you cherish one another's hearts and souls and lives. You are living Torah and I am so proud that I don't have to be here to make it so. But I am so happy and grateful that I am. I look forward to greeting each one of you personally in the days, weeks and months ahead,

Rabbi Roz

CONGRATULATIONS

Special guests will give personal insight into the role of the African American, Evangelical and next generation pro-Israel activists. Ashley Bell, Pastor Isaac Mooneyham and local Staci Eichelbaum will participate in the program.

Hall County Georgia's County Commissioner, Ashley Bell was elected in 2008 at age 27 to become its youngest ever Commissioner and one of the youngest in the State of Georgia. Bell is a graduate of Gainesville High School and Valdosta State University, and attended law school at the University of Georgia and Louisiana State University. He is a partner at Bell & Washington, LLP, practicing law throughout the State of Georgia. He is a 21st Century Leadership Fellow at the Harvard University John F. Kennedy School of Government.

Associate Pastor Isaac Mooneyham serves as the teaching pastor at the Tabernacle of Danville in central Virginia and holds degrees from Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary and Liberty University. Through the giving ministry of his church, Mooneyham has participated in the monetary support of The International Fellowship of Christians and Jews. Through its partnership with the IFCJ, Tabernacle's church family has underwritten the cost of helping 460 impoverished Jews make aliyah, along with filling various needs of their resettlement. Over the past five years, Mooneyham has focused on building relationships as an AIPAC activist. He has traveled twice to Israel.

A native of Virginia Beach, Staci Eichelbaum attended the Hebrew Academy of Tidewater through eighth grade and traveled to Israel with her eighth grade class in 2005. She became involved with AIPAC in the winter of 2011 after attending AIPAC's Saban Leadership Seminar with top college student activists. Shortly afterward, she created the first pro-Israel advocacy group on the campus of James Madison University. In the summer of 2012, Eichelbaum interned with AIPAC in the Mid-Atlantic regional office in Baltimore. In December, she traveled with AIPAC on their Advanced Advocacy Mission to Israel. She will graduate from James Madison University this May.

REMINDER

Submissions for the April bulletin must be received by March 1.

A Word from the President

Each month, you give me the opportunity to give you a little briefing on all we have happening around Temple. It's my attempt to let you know that your commitment to Ohef Sholom is well spent. We have a strong, vibrant community here because you care, because we have the best clergy, and because we have a can-do staff that makes everything happen.

Last month I erred in that I did not mention two on our staff who have brought purpose, organization and vibrancy to our youth group. You may not have met them yet, but Amy and Eliot Weinstein are looking out for your youth group. Their ability helped us have one of the best Fall Kallahs ever, and our children are excited and engaged in youth programming like never before. Many of our youth have asked if we can help them get to the next NFTY convention in Los Angeles this month. Getting a half-dozen or so to Los Angeles seems like a huge undertaking, but this is an investment in our future and the future of Reform Judaism. How can we not do all we can to help these children grow into their leadership roles? If you'd like to help our youth programming and scholarship funds, please ask Gail about contributions to those areas of greatest need.

Purimshpiel is this month. Cantor Wally always manages to pull a rabbit out of his hat, but any expertise on stage management or acting ability is greatly appreciated. Please join the troupe and have a lot of fun telling the story of Purim in new and entertaining ways. It's never too late to let your inner ham out. (Apologies to those who avoid treif.)

The Purim Carnival is the same day as the Shpiel, and I'm sure OSTY would appreciate your coming out and having a good time with the children and helping the youth group raise funds for future programming. As usual, your Men's Club and Sisterhood will be working that day to help with fundraising activities.

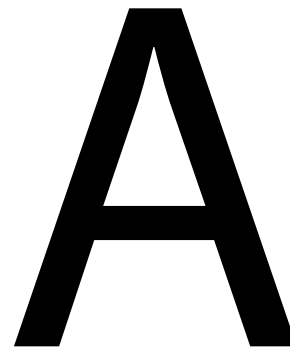

February may be a short month, but it is packed with all kinds of activities for the young to the young-at-heart. Please peruse this month's bulletin for all of our offerings.

I am grateful for many things. I will never be able to thank you enough for giving me the opportunity to serve you as your president. It is the most rewarding job I've ever had. I am grateful that Rabbi Roz had a wonderful sabbatical and that Cantor Wally and Rabbi Steinberg filled in for her while she was gone. I am also grateful that she is back and reenergized and leading our congregation once again. We are truly blessed by our clergies' caring and commitment to us and our community.

Music News ~ by Chuck Woodward

Anyone who attends an Ohef Sholom service on a Friday night can tell you how much the beautiful music enhances the evening. Accompanied by Chuck Woodward on the piano is a dedicated group of congregational choir members who selflessly give of their time and share their talents each week.

The congregational choir started as a group around 20 years ago. Led by the efforts of Minette Cooper, several congregational singers began to participate in the 5:30 p.m. summer vespers services while the temple's professional quartet was on break. Within a few years, the congregational choir grew both in numbers and in service participation, joining the quartet in services and special programs throughout the year, including on Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur. When Ohef Sholom's Shabbat services moved to 6:30 p.m. several years ago, the later service time allowed for the scheduling of a weekly 5:30 p.m. rehearsal just before the service, resulting in yet another increase in participation, now numbering around 20 singers every Friday.

In addition to rehearsals on Fridays, choir members attend extra sessions throughout the year when preparing for special services, events, and programs. It is exciting and very rewarding for me to collaborate with this wonderful group of singers as we explore the rich traditions of Jewish liturgical music. Each member has a true love of singing that is enhanced by their dedication, their joy, and their desire to lead this congregation in prayer through their music. Their contributions to our worship are so deeply inspiring and meaningful to this congregation and to me.

We'd like to acknowledge and thank this special group of people who help to make our services so special and moving:

A Rich Inheritance

Judaism is a life value system that encompasses much tradition and heritage. Those same values teach us to care for the next generation, too. By making a legacy gift you ensure the programming and the house of worship you love, along with the congregation it serves, stay strong and vibrant. You leave your children and grandchildren a precious inheritance, and a lasting testimony to your values.

Repair the World

Kick the water bottle habit!

DID YOU KNOW...

- One bottle of water is sold for 1,900 times the cost of the equivalent amount of tap water.
- Bottled water most often comes from public water sources, sometimes at great expense to local resources and ecosystems.
- 80 million disposable water bottles are used in the U.S. each day and 80% do not get recycled.
- Tap water is tested numerous times a day by municipal treatment authorities. Bottled water - like other privately owned commodities - is tested sporadically by employees of the private bottler.
- The chemicals in many plastic water bottles contain toxins known to leach. These chemicals are an environmental health threat both to consumers and to people living near the sites where these chemicals are manufactured.
- The energy required to produce, bottle and transport one disposable water bottle to the consumer is the equivalent of a half-bottle full of oil.

Tikkun Olam

Be part of the Solution

If the consumer isn't buying, bottlers will stop producing
